Vegetable Carving

Art is a way where students can colourfully express their views. It is a process of learning to create ourselves and experience the world in new ways. To educate the young buds of Muthamil Public School about vegetables, a Vegetable Art activity was organised. Vegetables contribute vitally to general well-being. They have lot of rich sources of 'Protective elements'. Our Primary Kids earnestly participated in the Vegetable arrangement. This event was conducted online through Zoom.

VALUES

Muthamil Public School not only ensures the well-being of students but also takes all the efforts to develop and update the Teachers Skills. The teacher's workshop was conducted on August 18 by Tata Edge. Youngsters know 'how' to do something, but they don't have the answer to the 'why'. They end up spending their entire childhood without truly discovering the actual meaning of education. This is where the importance of value-based education needs to be established in a child's life. The motive of this workshop was to train teachers so that in turn they could imbibe students with good moral values in life.

Muharram is a vital festival of Muslims. It states the start of the Islamic New year. The real meaning of Muharram is forbidden, illegal, unpermitted, impermissible, and so on. It is a festival that indicates the martyrdom of Hazrat Imam Hussain. For a long ten days, people celebrate it with some special prayers.

PAPER ART

From complex paper cutting to book carving, this is an ever-expanding area of design that is hardly talked about. These intricate paper designs grace museums and exhibitions throughout the world and are becoming yet another exciting medium... Schools level competitions are more than just participation and winning prizes; they can play a major role in uncovering and nurturing the natural talents of the students. This is especially true of the art competitions where the students find a platform to display their creative and artistic abilities. Peacock is our National Bird and it is entirely a part of Indian custom and culture. It is a symbol of grace and beauty. Paper art was organized on August 21 and our primary students drew the national bird, decorated with pulses, cereals and colour paper. It was indeed a moment of bliss and awe.

One of the biggest truths of the animal kingdom is the adage that says – Survival of the fittest. This essentially means a competition for life in the animal kingdom where the strongest animal, the fastest animal survives. However, among humans, we often frown upon the concept of competition among children. Especially academic competition as we feel that this often adds due pressure and leads to stress among kids. However today, many scholars are of the opinion, that competition are aware of everything is necessary, ingrained and happening around them essential not only for adults but also in a fun manner. for children. Learning has always been a part of human nature. As toddlers, we all learn to crawl, walk, and talk; we then attend schools and colleges to develop new skills. It would not be wrong to say that we all are avid learners, and we each have a learning style preference. Here, the focus will be on Kinesthetic learner characteristics. Learning, in itself, is a beneficial activity. The better a person is at learning new skills or concepts, the more successful they can be in a particular field. Many experts have tried to understand the mechanism behind how our brain learns new things. They have developed various models of learning styles among which the VARK Model is quite popular. VARK stands for visual, auditory, reading/writing, and Kinesthetic. According to this theory, we learn things either by watching, listening reading/writing or by doing. Those who learn best by doing are known as kinaesthetic learners. In essence, a kinesthetic learner processes information best when he or she is physically engaged during the learning process. The arena for Kinesthetic activities scientifically designed for different gross motor activities is placed amidst a natural set garden with shaded ornamental trees. Students here balance on heights, do rope walking on spider web shaped equipment, slide, tunnel walk, slide and crawl. Join and experience to see the sea change.

MODES OF TRANSPORT

Education first starts with the primary kids. Transportation is important because it facilitates trade, exchange and travel. Without effective transportation, regions are largely isolated from each other. Transportation is a means by which animals, goods and humans are moved from one place to another. A general insight was given to our KG Kids regarding different modes of transport and how they are beneficial. All the kids showed a lot of keenness and interest in learning about different kinds of transport.
